firmware program. Vietnam The 6th Vietnam-Russia International Exhibition on Air Transport, held in Hanoi from April 23 to April 26, was a good example of the leadership taken by the Ministry of Foreign Affairs and International Trade. The opening ceremony featured a congratulatory meeting between Vietnamese President Tran Dai Quang and Russian President Vladimir Putin. The ceremony was opened by Vietnamese Minister of Foreign Affairs and International Trade Pham Binh Minh. VFAI Chairman Nguyen Quoc Dung was also present at the ceremony. A press briefing was held by President Putin in which he emphasised Russia's support for Vietnam's efforts for the development of air transport, stating that if Vietnam plays a substantive role in ensuring the organisation of the upcoming 12th International Air Transport Conference in late 2016, Russia will take part in the event. In the technical meeting, different representatives and experts from Russia and Vietnam discussed ways to ensure effective commercial cooperation and production of high quality products. The ceremony was also attended by Russian Deputy Trade and Industry Minister Andrei Selyukin, Vietnamese Deputy Minister of Transport Le Thi Vuong, Russian Deputy Trade and Industry Minister Tikhon Khrushchev and VFAI CEO Nguyen Duc Chung. The VFAI, a non-governmental organisation of the governments of Russia and Vietnam, was established on April 27, 2001, after a decision was made in the first session of the Vietnam-Russia Cooperation Council in July 2000. The first International Air Transport Conference in 2013 showcased some of the topics that the relevant countries have discussed including: safety, industry development and transport-related problems. The VFAI has been participating in the organisation of the event since its inception and its participation has been recognised by the International Civil Aviation Organisation (ICAO) as an official observer. The VFAI chairperson Nguyen Tran Minh Quang said that the organisation would continue to play its role of the official organisation of Vietnam-Russia Cooperation.
