The Loophole is a step-by-step “bullet hell” type of game. You move in time to the beat of the music and press the fire button when you need to deflect a bullet or health bar. The game consists of over 100 levels. A Lifespan of about 15 hours Should you die, you are brought back to the beginning of the level. It is impossible to die. You can pick up coins from across the levels, and you can buy upgrades through the Shop. Combat in The Heilwald Loophole comes in 3 flavors: Explosive Bullets Bullets that can be shot out of your gun Bullets that will damage you if you touch them Cannon Bullets that can't be shot out of your gun, but can be charged by holding the button for a moment and releasing to launch a devastating burst at your opponents, your allies or the environment Cannons can be charged to a total of 6 shots. The Final Shots can cause Blindness, Frenzy, Smoke Screen, Sleep, Sleep Overload or Death! Suicide Missions You may fail a level by completing the mission/objective, and that may result in death. The more friends you have on your team the higher the chance that you will go through the Loophole alive. Every stage with an objective may be attacked by guards. Read the whole changelog here. The Plot The Heilwald Klinikum used to be a top medical institution, but over the years it fell into disrepair. The Klinikum used to admit patients who were entirely insane and it used to be one of the best places to do research on human behavior. Now it's a pile of junk in the middle of the Zwei-Idiot-Bahn-Haltestelle-Haus-Hellwald. The last time you were here you just survived a massacre but you were not the only one. The answer lies somewhere deep in the Heilwald Klinikum. The Klinikum is an awe-inspiring old building that has lost it's former glory. You're a doctor and you must prevent history from repeating itself. You must explore the rooms and discover the twisted details of the long forgotten asylum. You must locate the central control room, the power core of the Klinikum. There are other people outside. They

Rot Gut (1920's Gangster Action Game) is an action packed platformer by Leopoldo (Dew-B) Salinas, of indie games. Leading some of the top indie developers from Chile, this project aimed to turn the modern gaming community into a more fun environment. With this in mind, we decided to make a game that gives more fun to our players. Discover how fun it is to jump, slide and pull yourself across the ground with this ridiculous & fun platformer. It has a classic gameplay and a mixture of genre, that are all wrapped in one, to make your playthrough a crazy ride filled with drama, and sometimes a bit of comedy. The reviewers of indie games constantly talk about the "good gameplay" and "challenging gameplay" and this is what is based in the gameplay of Rot Gut, so your job is to jump and fight your way through each one of the 16 stages, and get to the end without dying, and make sure you have a good time. More Info: Rot Gut is being created as a PC game with a small group of experienced indie game developers. We are currently planning to release it on GNU/Linux and Windows, for Steam, itunes and Google Play! If you are a fan of GOOD GAMEPLAY, CHALLENGING GAMEPLAY and POST-PLATFORMS, please, take a look on the site and tell us what you think! Follow the game on twitter, facebook or pinterest! Dew-B: Buy Rot Gut from the link below: Buy the soundtrack of the game on bandcamp: Risks and challenges We are currently finalizing the perfect version of the game for GNU/Linux and Steam. We are a small team and everything that is being done is created in person. We are currently working in a small 8m^2 offices (two people) in Santiago, Chile, and it is hard to work in such a small space. The thing that is going to make the game ready for release is the resolution. Rot Gut is currently being built as a widescreen game, but it is a c9d1549cdd

What's new:

, Toast Space [DxO Labs] Recently acquired about 168 hours of video with a beautiful sunset behind it. I had a strange dream in which I turned on the VCR and watched this big movie of the sun dimming. Subsequently I realized I could have used that movie as my first project. OK, I would have been embarrassed about my attempt at a movie. But it's not as bad as failing with commercials that I was hired to make and re-using that footage in my latest! Alright, this project is about timelapse movies of the space around the earth! Sounds hopeless right? Well the sky is a pretty small place and I think something like four months time is enough for a small timelapse. And if it's not, you could always add more layers of spherical panning (the earth rotates). I think this will take a while to get right, so help is always appreciated. CAMERA FEATURES: • DxO Labs • 30 fps and more Why did I choose the settings above? Because I found a very nice resolution and framerate for my little cheap Canon camera. Don't be fooled by the f/1.2 aperture. I can probably use that for some fisheye effects later down the road. The diffraction effect is strong, but you will have to zoom in to see it for more than a few meters. But for now, it's good. MATERIALS: • Final Result If not, please send a test shot to me for review. You probably just wasted a lot of effort on this project. Please help me out with ideas or suggestions. I'm a stay at home dad. :) Go for it. I am soooo jealous:o) having been there my a career I am already pulling my hair out, trying to find the time and space to do the same thing. But your bright ideas are a great help. Glad you posted. Hehehe. Wierd thought, but possibly the pinhole camera effect has to do with that. (Lower light sensitivity from the air gap created by the film.) I suggest you give this project a shot. Others here may have success stories or tell you what to tune up. Always preferable than another shaky hand to film the attempt, weneverything looks is going wrong. As for suggestions, they fall into two categories, Resources or Gear. Resource

After more than 20 years of careerism, transit statistician Alesznya Glassburn is about to lose it all. The C.E.O. of the enigmatic Metro Warp has scheduled his resignation, promising high-level assistance to Glassburn in her final days. Glassburn takes the deal: the population of the Metro Warp planets is dwindling, and each world has its own crisis. She must travel to each world and assist the planet's inhabitants, placing innumerable barricades and different types of obstacles for the newly-reduced traffic of commuters to navigate. - The game comes with a free demo, if you want to try it before purchasing (you will be able to play it in the game) It's been a while since I've released a game. So I thought I'd bring out a demo of an old game. This game (and many more) can be found at michelegatgames.com. You can find many more games at same website if you'd like to try more. Hope you enjoy it! Would you like to walk in the shoes of this homicidal robot maniac? Or perhaps this nerd obsessed with Dungeons & Dragons, who comes home from work to his wife, throwing bread at her, bashing her with a pizza. Or your neighbor's pet, who devours your neighbors, wearing your clothes. We cannot be sure of his exact motives, but we want you to take his place! You must experience his life, feelings, and love for his wife, his beloved dog, and his headset. You are his doppelganger, a mechanoid who is taking control of his life! Will you feel the same way? It's you, the people! The short one, the fat one, the old one, the young one. But you are different! You are now the mechanoid taking control of his life! Do not judge, just experience! - Control everything, from this man's life, his wife's life, his dog's life, and the life of people you pass by. - Be immersed in the life of his life, being a detective who understands the human heart. - Feel his love for his wife and his dog, and that of his neighbors. - Take control of every aspect of his life, from his apartment, to his job, to his dog, to his house, to his love. - Feel the emotions of love, hatred, happiness, fear, surprise, anger, and many more.
